COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

There will be a meeting of the Execu tive Committee of the Democratic party of Anderson County in the Court House in Anderson, on Saturday the 23rd inst., at 11 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of tabulating and publishing the result of the primary election. A full and prompt atteudance is desirable.

E. B. MURRAY, County Chairman.

There has been some enquiry as to the teen caucus ballots, making in all 123 manner of appointing the managers of ballots. Col. D. Wyatt Aiken was rethe primary election. By referring to the rules for governing the primary election it will be seen that the Executive Committee of each Club appoints the managers for the election in such Club.

Our people had better look after live questions in electing their Representative. It is always easier to criticise what others have done than to originate new measures, and yet the Legislator who can only find fault without proposing anything new for the relief of the people is a tremendous failure. This is pre-eminently true at this time. Our State debt soon matures. We are now paying an interest of six per cent. upon our debt which requires $468,000 per year. This debt should and can be refunded on long time at 31 per cent., which would save at out, and the result was accepted in a least $200,000 per annum and give to our people a reduction of at least one and a half mills taxes. Our assesament laws should be simplified and improved. Our road system should be remodeled. Our County prisoners under sentence for crime, should be put to work upon roads and streets. Our penitentiary convicts should be employed to develope the material resources of the State, instead of competing with honest labor to enrich a few private persons. These and kindred subjects are the ones our people had better get the views of candidates for the Legislature upon. It is not profitable to discuss issues which are irrevocably

THE BOCK MILLS QUESTIONS.

Dr. Cook's article upon the University and the Canal, replying to the INTELLI-GENCER, presents no arguments which have not already been presented with at least as much force by the Greenville News and other papers which oppose these institutions. There is a great deal of assertion about his article, and very little argument. He begins with assuming that the appropriation is contrary to principle, but fails to show us how it is so. This State has had a College or University ever since 1805. Is it contrary to principle for us to keep up what has been handed down to us by the greatest men the State has ever produced? Not only this, but every other State in this Union has its University, except, we believe, the State of Florida. Is it contrary to principle for South Carolina to keep her head up with the other States previous article. We are auxious that of the American Union. We think the principle of a State University is well established in South Carolina, and in all the other States, except Florida, whose climate is not favorable, and whose material progress has but recently begun. To close the University on the plea of the poverty of the State would damage South Carolina more than our friends imagine. It would proclaim to the world a stagnation heré that would be ruinous. The University is a part of the educational system of the State, and is open for has carefully examined your comments all who wish to avail themselves of it. on her resolutions on Higher Education The fact that all men cannot send their and the Columbia Canal. You must sons to it does not render it the property excuse us when we say you have failed of any special class. All men cannot avail themselves of the common schools, but it would not do on that account to wants to lose all chance of establishing close the schools. The University is as an influence in the Legislature, he cannot much the property of the State as the do so easier than by voting against the common schools, and every boy, from the University." And again : "Whether our humblest to the highest, is alike entitled people favor it or not, the University is to participate in its benefits. It is more here to stay," &c. to the advantage of boys of moderate or As far as Rock Mills is concerned, she limited means than those who are wealthy. The wealthy man can send his Legislature if it requires a surrender of sons to any College in the world that he his principles and that of his constituenta may chose, but there are many boys who to obtain it, or any act upon his part will get fine educations at the South that will work injustice to our people. Carolina University, at an expense of We could but despise and hate such a two or three hundred dollars per year, member. who would not afford to pay five or six hundred dollars at the University of Virginia, or some other first class insti-tation. This is a great stimulus to the poor boys of the State. There are hundreds of them who will work their way

State to break down, in a large measure, the advantages which one class of citizens would have over another. The poorest people, and men of limited means, are not the ones to complain of the University. It is destined to dignify which to rest our government. and elevate their station in life for it will frequently send out bright men with trained minds from these classes who will (compete successfully with the sons of rich men in all the walks of life. It may not satisfy Dr. Cook for us to say that the University is here to stay, but he will live long enough, we hope, to see is begun. There will be a crushing majority in favor of the University, and it will have the life, and progress, and intelligence of the State as its supporters.

Therefore, we repeat that the men who now set themselves up to fight the University will lose all chance of establishing an influence in the Legislature, for he will be looked upon as lacking in progress, if not as a demagogue. The University is here to stay, and it will be a waste of influence, of breath, of time and of money for any man to attempt to close it.

Dr. Cook may be willing to stake everything on this fight, but the people of Anderson want live, progressive and influential men in the Legislature to grapple with real issues and questions of momentous consequence to the State which will, from time to time, arise. It will be worse than folly to leave out any good man because he may be in fayor of the University—such folly as the people of Anderson are never guilty of com-

Mr. Breazeale, of Anderson, offered a resolution that after nominations are made nominations be closed and the nomination be made from the nominees before the Convention.

On motion of Mr. Bradley, of Pickens, the counties were called alphabetically. Abbeville was called and passed for the present. Anderson was called, and Mr. W. W. Humphreys nominated Mr. E. B. Murray. Newberry was called and passed for the present. Oconee was called, and Mr. W. C. Keith nominated Mr. George Johnstone, of Newberry. Oco-nee was called again, and Mr. J. C. Cary nominated the Hon. D. Wyatt Aiken, of Abbeville. Mr. Cary's speech was elo-quent and impressive, and brought ring-ping applause.

Pickens was called and Mr. D. F.
Bradley nominated R. E. Bowen, Mr.
Childs seconding the nomination.
Col. E. B. Gary, of Abbeville, seconded the nominatior of Col. Aiken. His speech was followed by loud applause.

Mr. J. E. Breazeale, of Anderson, seconded the nomination of Col. Murray in a happy speech.

Mr. Prince, of Anderson, moved that the vote be taken viva voce. Carried. Mr. White, of Abbeville, moved that the Convention proceed to ballot. Cara teller be appointed from each county. Adopted, and the Chair appointed the following tellers: Messrs. White of Abbeville, Hagood of Pickens, Prince of Anderson, J. P. K. Goggans of Newberv and Mathewson of Oconee. Balloting was then commenced. First ballot—Aiken 13, Johnstone 13, Murray 10, Bowen 6. Second ballot, same as and Bowen arriving there on Tuesday and Mr. Breazeale moved another ballot. Carried. The 3d and 4th ballots showed no change. Mr. White, of Abbeville, moved to vote without the form of a motion until otherwise ordered. Carried. The 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th and 9th ballots were taken, but no change occurred. Mr. Breazeale, of Anderson, moved to adjourn until 3 o'clock. Carried, and the Correction adjourned.

On reassembling Col. E. B. Gary, of Abbeville, was elected assistant secretary. Sixty-two ballots were then taken without change from the first, and the Convention adjourned until 8 o'clock.

Col. Aiken, who spoke as follows: Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Convention and my Fellow Citizens: Once more these people speaking through you as their representatives, have entrusted to my keeping the Congressional interests of the Third District of South Carolina. To say that I thank you for this honor is but a meagre method of expressing the gratitude that this moment pervades my bosom. I have been true to you in the performance of the duties you have imposed upon me in the past. Never fear, my countrymen, that I will disappoint you in the future. I know, my fellow citizens, that my course has been severely criticised by some parties, and that I have been charged with entertain-ing views opposed to popular education. My friends, this is a slander, for no man in the S. .e is more in favor of educating a constituency than I. But, sir, when the aid to education comes through the channel of a Republican caucus, 1, as a Democrat, am bound to refuse its acceptance. [Applause.] I have, too, been accused of opposition to the National Democracy, and been charged with being a regular "party smasher." Sir, I yield to no man in my devotion to party. I will never consent to have my party fealty questioned. But, sir, I have said, and do not deny saying, that if the South in Congress had held aloof and stood as a unit she might have shaped Federal legislation, and this I advocated, not in antagonism to the National Democracy, but because I loved the South and my dear old State better than I did the Democracy of Yankeeland. |Loud applause and

The Abbeville Primaries.

ABBEVILLE, August 11 .- The vote of last Saturday's primary election was counted to-day by the Central Club, with the following result: Total vote cast 2,888, necessary for nomination 1,445. John F. Bradley received for the Legis lature 1,910, R. R. Hemphill 1,779, Ellis G. Graydon 1,588, W. H. Parker 1,522. The race for the fifth man will have to be run over again. M. Y. Zeigler for Clerk of Court received 2,683 and J. N. Cachran 170. Cochran 170. J. F. C. Dupre for Sheriff 2,254, G. McD. Miller 380. J. Fuller Lyon received the nomination for probate judge, J. T. Parks for auditor and J. W. Perrin for treasurer. the rest of the County officers, except the coroner, will have to run the race over. The pri-mary will come off next Saturday. Good will prevailed throughout the campaign and there was no partisanship in the race at all. The nominees for the Legislature are excellent men and their selection gives general satisfaction. Condition of Crops in South Carolina.

The reports of County correspondents August 1st, show a decline in the condition of cotton from the previous month.

During the early part of July the rains were very heavy, and this following the excessive wet weather of June, caused After the first week in July the weather was hot, dry and sultry, and the sudden change caused the plant to cast fruit and leaves, and shedding is reported very generally in all parts of the State. Great danger to the crop was apprehen-ded until near the close of the month, when seasonable showers relieved the anxiety of the farmers to some extent, The plant was sustained mostly by surface roots and in order to remove the grass it was necessary to plough close to the plant, and in some cases the surface roots were destroyed. The growth of the plant was consequently checked and some damage necessarily done. Since it has been freed of grass and has had the benefit of the rains in the latter part of the month, it is said to be taking on a better and more vigorous growth, prospects for an average crop brightening. In the upper part of the State the plant is small, and in the middle and lower sections it is about an average size, but, except in a few localities, it is not fruiting as well as usual at this sea-son. Three correspondents in the lower part of the State mention the appearance of the caterpillar; but one of them, who has not seen the worm, doubts if it is the genuine cotton caterpillar. The condi-tion is reported in Upper Carolina at 75. Middle Carolina at 85, Lower Carolina at 92—an average for the State of 84 against 79 for the same period last year. The July report showed the probable damage to corn on river and creek bottoms, and it is confirmed by the later re-ports. In many places the crops were destroyed by the floods too late to replant, and fields that on the first of June promised an abundant yield were aban-doned. The seasons have been remarks bly favorable for early planted upland corn, and it is estimated that it will give above an average yield. Late planted and that planted on oat stubble suffered severely from excessive rains during June and July and the drought that followed, and was reported below an average on the 1st of August. The general age on the 1st of August. The general condition for the whole crop is reported: For Northern Carolina, 73; Middle Carolina, 91; Lower Carolina, 98—an average for the State of 87 against 75 for — The Railway Age settles the question as to which is the oldest railway in the United States, as follows: "The first railway built in the United States was three miles in length, extending from the granite quarries at Quincy, Mass., to the Neponset River. It was commenced in 1826 and completed in 1827. The gauge was five feet. The rails were pine, a foot deep, covered with an oak plate, and these with flat bars of iron."
